F9: Font Preview - Usually when you type, the text appears in the font you type. But sometimes the text appears in the default system font. In this case you can use this shortcut to change the font. F10: Vertical Ruler - When you are creating new code, or any time you want to check the spacing or line numbers, it is always useful to have a visual reference to know where you are in your document. This can be done with the optional F10 key. It opens a line in the editor where you can see the line numbers and how they look like (the line height). F11: Line Comment - This shortcuts opens a line, where you can add a comment line (a line that starts with //). When you press F11 it will add the comment line, but not show it in the document until the next line (Ctrl+Tab). F12: Word Wrap - F12 will always put your text in a word wrap mode. Sometimes you might want to press F12 to create a new line. This shortcut will make the editor put the text on a new line, but keep it in a word wrap mode. F13: Quote - This will open the cursor in a quote mark. Then you can start typing. If you want to delete the quote you can use backspace, or you can use the back button to go back to the mark. F14: Block Quote - This opens the cursor in a block quote. Then you can type and the quote will appear around your text. You can also use the backspace key to delete the quote. F15: Quote (Disabled) - Pressing F15 will disable the quote. If you press F15 again it will enable the quote. F16: Insert Date/Time - F16 will open the cursor in a time/date cell. F17: Insert Link - F17 will open the cursor in a hyperlink cell. F18: Code Clean Up - This will close all the code blocks. It will put the cursor at the beginning of the next line.
